ald's Church lords it over town, a reminder of the rs and mellow brick, was stories. It remains a prestigious address, in demand with the county set for its enviable homes, many with views to the Welsh Hills, and equestrian credentials. The retired footballer Michael Owen has his racing stables here and the Boxing Day hunt meet is a big event in the social calendar.

The countryside is lush and lovely, a dog-walker's delight from every doorstep, but it's the amenities that make Malpas stand out. Practicalities are covered by convenience stores, the medical centre, dentist and pharmacy, a dry cleaner and tiny launderette, along with all the necessary grooming options for both humans and their furry best friends. Families are drawn by the two schools, keeping the age profile on the right side of too old.

"Malpas has absolutely everything you need for daily life and if you want a smart boutique for a nice new dress then Tarporley isn't far away," Helen Burrell, a counsellor who has lived in the area all her life, says. "It sounds vacuous but it's just a nice village with nice people and enough going on."

Those goings-on range from an annual village fair — highlights include a parade and a dog show — and a "Yesteryear Rally", showcasing unfeasible quantities of vintage machinery, to super-sociable Friday night gatherings at the Lion pub, often with live music. There are all kinds of sports — football, cricket, bowls and tennis at the sports club, and yoga, Pilates and much more at the Community Church.

Chester is easily commutable, Liverpool manageable and Manchester doable. Wrexham is even closer — where jobs are plentiful, social cachet less so.

What are the best shops and restaurants in Malpas?

There's a restaurant, excellent pub, fish and chip shop and a fine café bar for fun. There are two convenience stores, but Huxley's is the place for takeaway cakes, bacon baps and local produce — from Cheshire cheese and its own smoked mackerel pâté to homemade Caroline's Pesto, fresh from a kitchen in the village.

There are farm shops all around. Coffee-lovers should make a beeline for the Lost Barn, a roastery-cum-café/restaurant a couple of miles up the road in Tilston, with coffee so good it has been named the best food product in the entire northwest.

The friendly Old Fire Station café serves high-quality brunches and lunches by day, and cocktails, craft beers and tapas by night, and runs a monthly quiz night. A Table at Eaton's is the place for a more traditional dining experience while the Lion pub is a welcoming refuge whether you're there for a sociable drink or the Sunday roast beef.

Oh dear, what would Malpas's most famous twins Tom and Ben Curry think of this. One thing is certain, their Oundle education would not have permitted the mis-spelling of "Councillor"

Ah, Tim, are you sure that the lady is a Councillor or that her job is, in fact, a counsellor?
